In Campbelltown

The issues we encountered was communication and how we can benefit our city with our ideas. We resolved this by using our group member's experiences.

What we learnt from this project is how to communicate each other.

What makes our project beneficial is that we gave out ideas for a large “house” and made it as sustainable as possible. Using an eco-friendly garden where we don’t use harsh chemicals for the produce to grow. This also benefits the community who live there as they can learn such as gardening and new skills; especially the youth who live in the “house”. For the people who need to earn more, we have a return and earn system inside the house.
